Nerves of Steel is the captivating true story of Tammie Jo Shults's remarkable life—from growing up the daughter of a humble rancher, to breaking through gender barriers as one of the Navy's first female F/A-18 Hornet pilots, to safely landing the severely crippled Southwest Airlines Flight 1380 and helping save the lives of 148 people. Tammie Jo Shults has spent her entire life loving the skies. Though the odds were against her, she became one of the few female fighter pilots in the Navy. In 1994, after serving her country honorably for eight years, Tammie Jo left the Navy and joined Southwest Airlines in the early 1990's. On April 17, 2018, Tammie Jo was called to service once again. Twenty minutes into a routine domestic flight, Captain Shults was faced with the unthinkable—a catastrophic engine failure in the Boeing 737 caused an explosion that severed hydraulic and fuel lines, tearing away sections of the plane, puncturing a window, and taking a woman's life. Captain Shults and her first officer, Darren Ellisor, struggled to stabilize the aircraft.

Drawing deeply from her well of experience, Tammie Jo was able to wrestle the severely damaged 737 safely to the ground. Not originally scheduled for that flight, there is no doubt God had prepared her and placed her right where she needed to be that day.

From her high-pitched voice to his husky baritone, from the pink of her lips to his hazel eyes, from her wavy brown hair to his cuticles and fingertips, from the tears she sheds at night to the smiles he passes to her throughout the day, the words from her pen onto his paper, everything makes you feel love, everything depicts love and brings tinges of love to your breath. Heartbreaks, too, do exist just like every tear that flows down your cheek when you lose that special one; when you lose that special person from your routine, heartbreaks do devastate the beauty you used to enhance for that special one, heartbreaks do bring out the words you never knew for that special one, until that special one becomes that someone and eventually a no one. Welcome to the journey that explores the real phases of love, life and heartaches, ones that you can relate to, feelings you can debate to, the real events you can define HUES OF BLUES!!!!!!
