A number of researchers
nowadays are fond of talking about
'linguistic ideology'
and many students
want to write about it, for example for

Language and Ideology

Language ideology is a theory whereby
people are defined or

judged by the
language they speak.

This involves different aspects of language including
intonation, dialect,
accent, grammar and vocabulary. The interaction of people
from different backgrounds in a
social setting
invariably leads to the assignment of

What Is Language Ideology? (with pictures)
From Lippi-Green ' s
point of view,
standard language
ideology is a ' bias
toward an
abstracted, idealized,
non-varying spoken
language that is

imposed and
maintained by
dominant institutions ' . The author points out
that such thing as a
homogenous
language or national standard is impossible since
everyone speaks one
dialect or the other.
