PRETEND YOU'RE MINE was one of those books that took me completely by surprise. I picked it up as part of the Kindle Unlimited trial, intrigued by the blurb. What I got was a engaging, funny and emotional read with characters I just couldn't step away from. Harper was one of those heroine's you wish was your best friend.

Pretend You're Mine by Lucy Score - Goodreads

Pretend You're Mine is a great friends to lovers story. The characters are hugely likeable and it's easy to relate to them and their feelings. It's angsty, romantic and funny, and so very hot. Ryan's brother Dean features heavily and is such a character. He's rather cocky and I can't wait to read what Ms Kaswell has in store for him.

Pretend You're Mine is quite a long read, there's lot going on in the plot/subplots and there are a lot of characters. So, all in all, you need to be on your toes when you read this book. Some situations and characters highlight Harper, allowing readers to witness her integrity. Lucy Score may also be introducing some characters for future books (?).

I've had the mother of all crushes on my brother's best friend since I was a preteen. Who can blame me? Nico is the perfect guy: he's kind, funny, smart . . . he's a talented chef, and he looks like a Greek god. When he helped me get this job, I was excited that we were actually going to live in the same town again. But then he moved to Chicago, sub-letting me his house, which is awesome for my budget but sad for my body. And my heart. The fact that Nico's on my mind is the only excuse I have for why I used his name when I needed a pretend boyfriend in order to keep my new job. But now that I've done it, it's no big deal, right? I mean, he's in Chicago, and I'm in Florida. He'll never have to know . . . Until the unexpected happens, and Nico's back home. Suddenly, I have a lot of explaining to do. Although I convince Nico to play along, each day it gets harder to make believe something that feels so real. How long can I keep pretending . . . before the truth comes out?

Harper starts her life over again with a fake relationship with real-life hero Luke. But fake and real and hidden truths soon turn into one unforgettable love story.

Fake relationship - Small town drama - Country music I've gotten into my fair share of awkward situations... Although, asking a random stranger to be my fake boyfriend is by far the worst. In my defense, it was an act of desperation. An act I hope will keep away the men in town who see me as their ticket to becoming the mayor's son-in-law. But I have a plan. 1. Date my fake boyfriend long enough for the news to spread across town. 2. Have a very public breakup that leaves me too heartbroken to move on. 3. Continue living my happily single life. There's only one problem... Harris wasn't supposed to be the kind of man I've always wanted. There's no denying the sparks that fly between us. Just when I'm about to give him my heart, he does the one thing I can't forgive. Our breakup is public all right, and the heartbreak is real.

Lydia Maxwell: One moment Taylor is scowling at my tardiness and the next moment he is propositioning me. What do I say to that? Of course, I hold my tongue from insulting him and his family any further. The man has the power to save my company or let it wither before it even gets a chance to blossom. I just have to tolerate him for a year. Certainly, I can do that. I can keep up the ruse as long as he keeps his end of the bargain. Fingers and hearts crossed that nothing changes. Taylor Hirano: I'll admit that it's hard for me to open up. It's not easy for someone to hold my eye. But Ms. Maxwell is proving otherwise. Something about her that makes me want to open up just a little bit. To tell her about the demons that I hide. Perhaps it's her Oscar-worthy act that's getting to me. I shouldn't get too close. When the time comes, she'd be gone, and I'd be alone as she found me.

Landscape architect Devon Rhodes doesn't know what to think when he overhears a heated conversation in his new next-door neighbor's back yard, but when he decides to intervene, he definitely isn't expecting the encounter to change his life forever. Forced to retire from his career as a professional ballet dancer far too soon, Sebastian DeVille has moved to the quiet suburbs of San Francisco to figure things out and maybe get away from his poor decisions for a while. Well, one poor decision. His very married ex. An ugly argument with the man leads to an unlikely meeting with his sexy new neighbor and an unexpected Valentine's date that neither Sebastian nor Devon will ever forget. But can one night of pretend romance really lead to a lifetime of love? *Although this is part of my Protectors universe, this short story can be read as a standalone. Please note that this story was previously part of a promotional giveaway so it was intended to be a certain length. Although it is a complete story with an HEA, if you don't care for short stories, Devon and Sebastian's tale may not be for you.

She can take my last name. As long as I can have our baby. Childhood crushes are fickle. Yet this one is sweet and sticky like honey. Trixie is in need of help, and I'm a certified hero. Married to me, she can get the loan to buy the building her shop is in. Our close quarters are combustible. Flirting turns sexy. I've got a bad crush on my wife. Danger lights the fuse that smolders between us. Fake married friends with benefits? You could say it's complicated. So what happens when you really fall in love? All I know is that I'm keeping her for good.

If you can't stand the heat, don't fall for a firefighter... Fire Chief Lincoln Reed is known for his heroics in the fire department and in the bedroom. Life is a never-ending good time. Until she lands in the middle of the accident scene he's working...and then his backyard. Too bad she's immune to flirty first responders. Flight trauma surgeon Mackenzie O'Neil is on a crash course with burnout. She's got a scar on her face and a shake in her hands. A temporary job as a small-town family physician is just the prescription. She'll learn to meditate. Sleep more. Take up gardening. She definitely won't take her shirtless, firefighting neighbor's hot body for a test drive. But Linc and his tattoos are very persuasive. What's a harmless little adrenaline-fueled fling between neighbors? It's all naked fun and games until the shadows from Mack's past find their way into her present. Can Linc be her hero when she needs him the most or will their scars ruin everything? One thing is certain: Someone is going to get burned.

Wounded veteran Aldo wishes for his old life, while Gloria tries to build a new one. Between scars and second chances, these two collide. Will they help each other heal or do more harm?
