The Fox and the Hound is a 1967 novel written by American novelist Daniel P. Mannix and illustrated by John Schoenherr. It follows the lives of Tod, a red fox raised by a human for the first year of his life, and Copper, a half- bloodhound dog owned by a local hunter, referred to as the Master.

The Fox and the Hound (novel) - Wikipedia

The world painted by Mannix is brilliantly told from the eyes of two animals- the fox, Tod, and the hound, Copper. Most of the world is described by smell, which would be expected of an animal who uses scent as its primary sense. This makes everything about the environment in this book unique, vivid, and quite memorable.

The original novel, The Fox and the Hound, was written by Daniel Mannix and published in 1967. The book follows the movie for only the first half; after Tod goes back into the wild, the stories begin to differ. In the book, the hunter's favorite hunting dog does die, and he and Copper vow to hunt Tod down until the fox is killed. It takes several years for them to find the fox; each year, Tod looks forward to it in a way, as it is the only part of his old life that remains.
