"The people of Kurdistan almost unanimously prefer independence to being part of Iraq," says Peter W. Galbraith (p. 242), but all contributors agree that this is not an option now or in the near future because of the fears of Syria, Iran and Turkey that the cause of independence would spread to their own Kurdish populations. In the case of Syria and Turkey, Kurds sit on their only major oil and gas-producing regions.

The Future of Kurdistan. By Sean-Paul Kelley. No single topic had me more concerned in the run-up to war in Iraq than the future of Kurdistan. At the time it was unimaginable that a scenario would present itself in the aftermath of Iraq where we would go to war with Iran. But the possibility of a regional war involving Kurdistan, Turkey, Iraq/US and possibly Syria seemed real.
