THE ARMY: Chaplains had no role in the United States Army until 1791. However, colonial clergymen frequently raised military units from their own congregations and communities, and often led them in battle. A number of New England clerics served at Concord. Some even shouldered their muskets and fought alongside their fellow soldiers.

As a resource for you, HealthCare Chaplaincy TM created a comprehensive chaplaincy volunteer training manual created for use in any health care setting. Drawing on national expertise in the field of chaplaincy and volunteer management, the manual is a resource to train individuals in a number of key areas, including the following:

The Unit Ministry Team (UMT) handbook provides an unclassified staff reference book for chaplains and chaplain assistants. It emphasizes essential activities during combat operations at division and lower echelons. This handbook is considered a "living document"—that is, it will receive periodic formal review by the proponent, but it also should be reviewed and revised by the user to meet specific needs. Chaplains and chaplain assistants should use this handbook as a guide, being mindful that they must remain knowledgeable of policies and procedures established by regulations, standing operating procedures (SOP), and other local directives. This publication applies to the Active Army, the Army National Guard (ARNG), and the U.S. Army Reserve (USAR). The U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) is the proponent of this publication. Users are encouraged to recommend changes and submit comments using DA Form 2028 (Recommended Changes to Publications and Blank Forms) to the Commandant, United States Army Chaplain Center and School, ATTN: ATSC-CD, Fort Jackson, South Carolina 29207 7090. Unless this publication states otherwise, masculine nouns and pronouns do not refer exclusively to men.

Vol. for 1958 includes also the Minutes of the final General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America and the minutes of the final General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.
